PROFESSOR BONNEY ON FREEDOM.

Interesting Lecture Delivered Before Members of Christian Service Club.

At the Sunday afternoon meeting of the Christian Service Chub of May 21st. Professor Bonney spoke on the subject of true freedom. Inasmuch as the theme is one of universal interest we feel that it should not pass by unnoticed. The exposition was very clear and forceful, and its application dealt with every phase of student activity. We herewith quote a portion of Professor Bonney's remarks :

"It is a pleasure, to me at least, to meet some of the men of the college in a relation entirely different from the routine relation of teacher to student. I do no want anyone to come to feel that I am a sort of personification of mathematics. I want to meet you as a human being in the many relations of human beings.

"The ideas which I shall try to present to you are simply my personal convictions arrived at by my own observations, experiences and thought. I do not claim for them infallibility. They simply reppesent principles in which I believe. They may be right or wrong. I present them to you for what they are worth. But my willingness for you to appraise them as you please does not affect the sincerity with which I believe in them.

"I will ask you to think with me for a few moments about Freedom. We will dismiss at once the political aspects of freedom and confine our attention entirely to the freedom of the individual in relation to himself.

"The desire of the individual for freedom is one of the most universal and persistent of the animal kingdom. In the human species its urgings are most irresistibly felt in youth. Every boy some time begins to chafe under the ordinary maternal and paternal restraint and often quite audibly longs for the time when he can do as he pleases, when he can be free. Not infrequently students of secondary institutions are wearied beyond endurance by the irksome tasks and trying discipline there imposed, often to the extent of giving it up. I sometimes fear that some college boys at times feel the same rebellion. Perennially youth is saying within itself: 'Let me alone. Don't advise me, don't admonish me, don't preach to me. Let me alone. I want to be and I will be free, free to act and think for myself.'

"This desire of youth for freedom is one of its most valuable possessions and has wrought mightily for the advancement of the human race. It has been youth or at least the spirit of youth that has broken most of the shackles which time has forged. I glory in the audacity, sometimes even in the perversity of youth. If anything, let us have more of this youthful love of freedom. To be a free man in its truest sense seems to me one of the highest possble ideals.

"Perhaps some of you are now pic-

Track Team Wins Third Consecutive Dual Meet. Five Records Go by the Boards.

That Middlebury has a track team of which she may justly be proud, was clearly established on Saturday, May 27, when the blue and white jerseyed athletes so completely outclassed the men from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute that after the first event there could be no doubt as to the final result. It was a most fitting climax to a successful track season, which has never before been approached at Middlebury. It was the third and final dual meet of the year and for the third time the men came through with a victory, leaving an impression on all who witnessed the meet that will long be a pleasant one. Realizing it was their last chance for the year every man exerted himself to the utmost and as a result five records were shattered. The first one to go was the half mile, which Hollister lowered to 2:03. Lee lowered his own record for the 120 yard high hurdles of 17 seconds to 16. Then Jones came across with the record performance of 9 minutes and 55 seconds in the two mile run, the fastest two miles ever run on the Middlebury track. Only one new record was made in the weights and that by Condit in his last appearance in a Middlebury track suit, when he threw the hammer 119 feet and 6 inches. Hollister was the only man to establish two new records and to him goes the credit for Middlebury's new record of 21 feet 5 1-2 inches in the broad jump. One new record was also set up for Rensselaer by Bushnell who cleared the bar at 10 feet 6 1-2 inches in the pole vault. Bushnell was R. P. I.'s best man, winning 10 of his team's forty-one points. The track was in the best condition it has been this year to which fact the phenomenally good results may be, in some measure, due. The final score was 85 to 41.

The events started off with an exciting 100 yard dash, done in 10 1-5 seconds, Lee and Darby of Middlebury taking first and second places.

The half mile was probably the prettiest race that has ever been seen on Porter Field. Krehbiel of R. P. I. kept the lead through the first lap and well on to the home stretch until Hollister overtook him and passed him barely in time to break the tape. Dean of R. P. I. finished third. This race was run in 2:03, a new college record.

R. P. I. scored the first of their three first places in the 220 yard dash when Ralleisen just nosed out Darby of Middlebury. Stearns of Middlebury and Powers of R. P. I. fought it out for third place with the former winning out. Time, 23 2-5 seconds.

As was expected Jones came through with a win in the mile run and although Markham of R. P. I. ran a plucky race, he had to content himself with second place. Schaffer of R. P. I. was a rather

MIDDLEBURY HALL AT DOSHISHA UNIVERSITY

President Thomas Announces a Campaign to Raise Necessary Funds.

The contemplated building of a dormitory at the Doshisha University, Kyoto, Japan, by the alumni and students of Middlebury College, was officially announced by President Thomas on Saturday last at the chapel exercises. The committee of the student body which was appointed last fall from the members of each class of both the Men's and Women's Colleges to handle the propaganda of the fund, have been at work during the winter laying plans for an active campaign. The Faculty is represented by Dr. Vernon C. Harrington. The committee is composed as follows: Seniors, Pauline Roland, chairman, Ralph Shedd; Juniors, Louesa Bullis, Harold M. Davis, Treasurer; Sophomores, Dorothy H. Brown, Richard H. Buffum; Freshmen, Helen S. Stilphen, Wilson A. Roberts. A thousand circulars and letters have already been sent to the alumni and friends of the college urging a generous contribution to the fund. Work is in progress among the faculty, who have contributed generously.

During the next week a vigorous campaign will be carried on among the students by means of a personal canvass of each student by the members of the committee. Beginning next week, there will be a bulletin posted each morning stating the amounts given by each class. In this way it is hoped to stimulate added interest and keen rivalry among the classes themselves, and also between the men and women of each class.

The importance to the college of such a project can scarcely be over-estimated. This is the first time the student body has ever been asked to contribute in such a manner, and it is the duty of every member of the college to contribute something, however small, to the success of this enterprise, which is peculiarly a Middlebury interest. Don't wait to be asked. You will save the committee a great deal of labor by taking the initiative yourself and offering your contribution or your subscription to any member of the committee. They are giving their time freely; you can at least co-operate.

If Midd. spirit means anything, now is the time to show it.

Kaleidoscope Elections.

The Sophomore class held a meeting in the Hemicycle at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of electing a Kaleidoscope board for next year. I. W. Eastman was chosen editor-in-chief, with Marie Champagne as assistant editor-in-chief. R. E. Dake and Helen Clift were elected to the office of business manager and assistant business manager respectively. The other officers on the board have not as yet been announced.

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE 9 NORWICH UNIVERSITY 4

Blue and White Clouts Ball Hard and Trims Cadets for Second Time This Season.

In an interesting and well played game, in spite of the wretched condition of the field, Middlebury defeated Norwich University on Porter field, Tuesday afternoon, making it two straight from her worthy rivals from Northfield. The afternoon was anything but promising for a ball game, the heavy rain of Monday night was followed by showers Tuesday which lasted until nearly three o'clock. The pitcher's and batter's boxes, which had been carefully covered, were in fair condition, and by a generous application of saw dust and other drying material, the field was put into the best possible shape for the contest. The crowd of loyal fans who gathered to witness the game left the field feeling amply repaid for their loyalty.

The opening was not very auspicious for the home team. The first two men to face Garrison hit safe, were sacrificed to second and third by a well placed bunt from Smith's bat and scored a minute later on a clean two base hit by Goodrich. Two more runs were gathered by the Cadets in the forth.

Hooker and Tomlin were both given free tickets to first, advanced off Derrick's short hit to right, and scored on B. Lamere's single to left. This ended their scoring, but with a four run lead and Lamere for a time working nicely, things looked rather dark for Middlebury.

The local sluggers began to find themselves in the fourth. After Robinson had struck out, Dewhirst and Bartlett hit safe, advanced on a passed ball and scored on Christian's clean single to left.

In the fifth, Lamere put one safe over short and Bresnahan attempting to sacrifice with a bunt, beat it out for a hit, but was doubled up a moment later on Mott's short play to the pitcher. With two down, Robinson hit to left, bringing in Lamere, Dewhirst followed with a liner down the right field foul line and Appointed to West Point.

Wellsworth C. P. Thomas of North Adams, Mass., formerly a member of the class of 1917 has been appointed by Governor Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. The appointment was made in accordance with an Act recently passed by Congress empowering governors of states to name men for cadetships at the academy.

A recent issue of the Boston Transcript contained a cut of Mr. Thomas and the announcement of his appointment. Mr. Thomas, who is the son of former principal Mortimer W. Thomas of Drury High School, North Adams, Mass., is well remembered in Middlebury, having been a student in college here for two years. He was a member of Delta Upsilon.

EDITORIAL.

Looking Ahead.

With the college year almost at an end most of us are beginning to speculate as to what sort of an entering class will make its appearance in the fall. Ever since the entry of the present freshman class, the Assistant-Dean's office has been woking systematically to round up prospective freshmen, and the question naturally suggests itself—have we done our part, as individuals, to help guarantee a big class of freshmen in September? Perhaps many of the present student body have been very active in this direction and doubtless a certain percentage of the alumni have, for no institution of learning can boast of a more loyal band of alumni than the sons and daughters of old "Midd." Many of us, however, both alumni and undergraduates have given this little thought because of pressure of other duties, and to this element in particular THE CAMPUS has some suggestions to make.

THE CAMPUS believes that the time is ripe for a big jump in the student enrollment at Middlebury. With the Hepburn dormitory ready for occupancy in the fall we are prepared to accommodate a larger body of men. The progress of our college in all of its departments, in its material equipment, influence, collegiate standing and even in its athletic rating, is sufficient reason why a larger body of students should have the benefits of what Middlebury has to offer. Is it not time that our numerical total for the regular academic year had passed the four hundred mark?

Would it not be a good plan to set before us some definite numerical standard, say five hundred students, as the goal of our ambition in that particular direction—the ideal student body for Middlebury? THE CAMPUS believes that by active, energetic co-operation on the part of both alumni and undergraduates the student enrollment here could be quickly and very materially increased It is true that a certain percentage of students will come to Middlebury anyway, but it must be remembered that in these days of competition between our universities and colleges for desirable students, it is necessary to actually go out and get them. We do not for a moment urge any lowering of standards in favor of added numerical strength, but on the contrary a combined and vigorous effort to attract to Middlebury an increased number of young men and women adequately prepared to meet Middlebury's requirements. Why not take it upon ourselves as individuals, whether alumni or undergraduates, to preach the gospel of the new Middlebury and spread broadcast the ideals of our institution with particular reference to the Middlebury idea of the revitalization of the State of Vermont—

"To send a lot of educated men and women, with their elevating ideals, throughout the State, to retake lost places—to raise standards both of productive skill and the aim of life, will tell more for the well-being of the nation than to turn them loose with the usual American ideals for success in wealth and fame."

Doctor Hillegas, the new State Commissioner of Education said, on the occasion of his visit to Middlebury in April, "The big ambition that I have is to make a very clear path for the boy and girl, no matter where they may be, right down through the elementary school, and high school, and through college". Why not exert ourselves a little, in co-operation with Doctor Hillegas and see to it that there is a well beaten path leading from the homes of Vermont's ambitious youth, down to the very halls of old Midd ? According to the Carnegie Foundation report, "Middlebury has given more teachers to the State than any other institution. Nearly one-fifth of the High School teachers, principals, and others are Middlebury graduates, as well as many district superintendents". The possibilities of real cooperation of the undergraduates and alumni therefore are apparent. THE CAMPUS suggests that every student in college take it upon himself, or herself, to send back one freshmen in the fall. Let's get together, everybody, and boost, boost, boost, boost for a bigger and better Middlebury and a student enrollment of five hundred.

Publicity.

The axiom "it pays to advertise" may be applied in the college world as effectively as in the commercial. That most colleges recognize and take advantage of this fact is amply evinenced by the the press bureaus which many of our leaeing institutions maintain, and by the effectiveness in keeping their respective institutions continnually in the public eye Why shouldn't Middlebury adopt some systematic method of getting college activities before the public?

There have been repeated and well founded complaints that Middlebury's activities, particularly athletic victories do not get proper recognition in the public press. Oftentimes it happens important contests are not reported and that even a bare statement of scores do not find their way into the columns of our leading newspapers. There is no denying the fact and the trouble rest primarily upon the absence of a definite organization which should exist for the express purpose of getting reports of games and important college functions into the offices of our big dailies. Middlebury has depended for the most past upon student reporters, whose activities have been uncertain and ineffective. Attempts have been made to create a student press bureau, and a year ago such an organization was incorported as part of the Middlebury Union. If the Campus remembers right the men charged with the execution of its functions were individuals reporting principally of Vermont papers. As a medium of transmission of news to the metropolitan dailies it failed because of lack of efficient organizatlon, equipment, fund, and for the most part for lack of pep. As a student venture is was not a success.

THE CAMPUS suggests that an efficient press bureau be organized at once by the college authorities, to be directed by an officer of the college and to include on its publicity staff all men who are actually reporting for newspapers, whether local or metropolitan. With and energetic college official responsible for its direction, and an interested group of student scribes enrolled, the name of Middlebury and her achievements will become more familiar in the newspaper world as the east. We believe such an organization can be developed and its work carried on with telling results and without any hardship upon men who depend upon newspaper reporting as a means of earning part of their college expenses. In fact quite the reverse would be true and it would react for the good of both student reporter and college. Lets have a press bureau with the institutinn back of it and this important element in old "Midd's" forward drive—publicity—will be less neglected in the future.

The Old Order Changeth.

At the last meeting of the Campus board it was decided to make a radical departure from the old system under which the college paper has been published in the past and place the paper upon an entirely new basis for the future. Heretofore the appointive system has been in effect and each fraternity and sorority in college appointed their respective members to the board subject to the ratification of the latter. Neutral representation was similarly provided. From this group representation a loosely organized competitive system has been evolved, which year after year has proved inefficient. Such a result was inevitable, because not infrequently the fraternal groups chose men who had neither literary inclinations nor a desire to be on the board. The natural result was that the task of getting out the paper has fallen upon a small minority of the board. The business department has been affected likewise. During the past year a modified competitive system was adopted, whereby candidates, neutrals or fraternity men, might earn a place on the board.

The need of a change has long been apparent and the present board has determined upon a plan that will insure a better college newspaper organization for the future. A purely competitive system will be adopted. A committee is at work drawing up a constitution and set of by-laws which will govern the election of members to the board, their advancement, etc. The fraternity appointive system has been abolished and all candidates in the future will have to earn membership on the board by a system of competition designed along the lines of those adopted by most of the other colleges. The new system will train men for definite fields of newspaper work and place the paper upon a plane of efficiency never even approached under the old appointive arrangement.

Norwich appears on the U. V. M. football schedule after an absence of several years. Current issue of Reveille recalls "good old days" when Norwich football machines were supreme in Vermont. Gone, but not forgotten !

Just where is the college flagstaff ? Perhaps some future graduating class will give us one able to withstand Vermont's "most ungentle" breezes.

Where, oh where, is our student volunteer Fire Department ?

Team Given Send-off.

In order that our baseball team might feel that they had the backing of the student-body in their hard three-game trip, a p-rade was organized by the men of the college at about ten o'clock Wednesday night. The organization of the p-rade began at the dormitories and was led by a section of the college band, and the enthusiastic group marched with the team down to the station. Numerous cheers were given for the team and for the individual players, showing them that we were with them in spirit. The schedule for this trip, which includes three hard games on June 1st, 2nd and 3d with Tufts, Trinity and M. A. C., represents the last games of the season to be played away from the home grounds. The men who made the trip were Robinson, Lamere, Bartlett, Bresnahan, Dewhirst, Crippen, Garrison, Mott, Butterfield, Christian and Bower.

Camping Party at Lake Dunmora.

Among the many "Middies" who spent the recent holiday at Lake Dunmore, was a crowd of seventeen girls, who took possession of the Sanford cottage on Saturday, returning to Middlebury Wednesday morning. Trips were made to the surrounding points of interest, and a "wonderful time" was reported by all in the party.

No serious accidents occurred although one of the number accidentally walked into the lake in a vain attempt to reach a boat.

The only out-of-town guest was Miss Harriet Nutting of Westminster. Miss Bertha Wood, of the library staff, chaperoned.

Miss Ada Barnes, 1916 Salutatorian.

Miss Ada Barnes of Middlebury has been chosen Salutatorian of the class of 1916. Miss Barnes has distinguished herself at Middlebury as an exceptional student. She is a resident of the village and prepared for college at Plattsburgh High school, Plattsburgh, N. Y.

SEND THE CAMPUS HOME

Alban J. Parker, 1916 Valedictorian.

Announcement has been made by the faculty of the award of the valedictory to Alban J. Parker of Morrisville.

The announcement that "Beanie", as he is popularly known about the Campus, had captured the coveted honor, was received everywhere with approbation. Mr. Parker prepared for Middlebury at People's Academy, Morrisville, and since entering Middlebury has been prominent in the affairs of his class. He has been a member of the Varsity football team for the past two years, and prominently identified with the musical activities of the college. Mr. Parker is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi. He plans to enter the educational field after leaving Middlebury.

tardy third. The time of the race was 4 minutes and 51 4-5 seconds.

The 440, always an interesting event, was replete with thrills. Peabody led off at a terrific pace, closely followed by the two R. P. I. men. This bit of strategy was successful and Darby, saving himself for the final spurt, won out, with Dawson and Schaffer of R. P. I. second and third respectively. Time, 54 2-5 seconds.

The 120 yard high hurdles was a pretty race although from the start there was nothing to it but Lee. There is some question as to the legality of the record of 16 seconds which he made, due to his knocking down the second hurdle. Bushnell and Buckley of R. P. I. fought it out between themselves for second and third places.

Bresnahan added his contribution by handily winning the 220 yard low hurdles. Hard, also of Middlebury, beat out Bushnell of R. P. I. for second place. Time, 27 4-5 seconds.

The two mile run soon developed into a procession with Jones far in the lead winning over his nearest opponent by nearly 300 yards, and setting a new Middlebury record of 9 minutes and 55 seconds. Cullen of Middlebury finished an easy second and Polhemus and Smith of R. P. I. fought to the last inch for third place, the former just nosing out Smith. Markham who gave Jones such a good race in the mile was overcome and forced to drop out, thus taking any possible chance for a contest out of the race.

Paulsen cleaned up the high jump for Middlebury with a leap of 5 feet and 3 inches, Tatro of Middlebury was a close second and Woolsey of R. P. I. third.

The shot put was one of R. P. I.'s strong points and she took both first and third places, Kreil putting it 33 feet and 1 inch, Brewster of Middlebury took second, with Ewing of R. P. I. third.

Middlebury's men swept the boards in the discus, Tatro, Hard, and Brewster capturing the points. Tatro's winning heave was 102 feet and 6 inches.

Bushnell of R. P. I. gave a fine performance in the pole vault, defeating Lee of Middlebury with a jump of 10 feet and 6 1-2 inches. Kerslake of R. P. I. won out over Paulsen for third place.

Again in the hammer throw Middlebury shut out R. P. I. Condit threw it 119 feet and 6 inches for a new record and Horsford and Ayers took second and third.

The fifth record to be broken was in the broad jump when Hollister of Middlebury leaped 21 feet 5 1-2 inches, Kerslake of R. P. I. just beat out Bushnell for second place.

The officials for the meet were: referee, Dr. Lambert; judges at finish, Professors Robinson, Swett, and Abbott, time keepers, Professors Bryant, Howard, and Voter; field judges, Professors Wetherell, Harrington, and Bonney; starter, Mr. Murch; official scorer, Mr. Davis; assistant scorers, Logan, '16, and Cowles,'16; official announcer, Danolds, '17.

A summary of the meet which will show the well balanced strength of the Middlebury team is as follows:

	M.	R.
100 Yard Dash,	8	1

BASE BALL TEAM GETS TWO SET BACKS

Loses Close Game to Hamilton and Drops One-Sided Contest to Colgate

The varsity received two serious setbacks on its Eastern New York trip last week. The first at the hands of Hamilton at Clinton on Thursday, by a 2 to 1 score; The second on Friday by Colgate at Hamilton, N.Y., the score being 15 to 4.

The Hamilton game, with consistent ball playing would easily have been a victory. Crippen was pitching wonderful ball, holding his opponents easily in check and after Middlebury had scored its lone run in the seventh, on hits by Robinson and Christian, it looked like a sure win.

Things looked different in the eighth, however. Page, the first man up for Hamilton, struck out. Aldrich and Schwarz hit safely and then the balloon ascended. Miller was passed. Cavanaugh hit safely to the infield, the ball being played to the plate, but Brickett failed to tag Aldrich, whose tally tied the score, and in attempting to catch Cavanaugh, going second, Brickett threw to center field and Schwarz scored the winning run on a poor return by Bartlett.

Middlebury made a final attempt in her last chance when Aylward, pinch hitting for Brickett, was safe on a clean drive to right but the next two men were easy victims by the strike out route, ending the game.

COLGATE GAME

The Colgate game was an example of one of those times which come to all ball teams when their "Jinx" seems to have taken a short cut home.

Garrison the first slab artist who attempted to shoulder the pitching burden for the day was ineffective and hit hard, the New Yorkers batting out 10 hits for a total of nine runs in the 3 2-3 innings in which he worked. Aylward, who replaced him, was no better and lasted only long enough for Crippen to warm up. "Crip" although he had pitched a three hit game the day before, had no trouble in holding them scoreless the remaining five innings of the game.

The playing in the infield seems to give a better working combination and with a little better pitching the team should give a good account of itself during the remainder of the season.

PROFESSOR BONNEY ON FREEDOM.

turing me as calling forth the youth of the land and saying, 'You want to be free and you shall be free. The world is yours, go forth and work your will.' Far from it. This is what I should try to say: 'You long to be free. It is a noble desire. Cherish it with all your soul's strength. But be not deceived; for freedom look within. Free yourself to the utmost of your ability from your own limitations. Set this task to your splendid energy. To develop your powers all along the line to their utmost, to push back the personal barriers which hamper your activities, this brings into your life a freedom that increases with advancing years instead of palling when the fire dies out of the blood. True freedom, the freedom which satisfies, which endures, and which no one can take away, is within. I challenge you to free yourselves from yourselves.'

"Let us consider three groups of limitations from which I challenge youth, myself included, to free itself. First—, physical limitations. All of us have physical limitations, some peculiar to ourselves, others common to the race. Can we be free from them? Surely not entirely, but we can make them give way to a remarkable extent, if we sufficently desire to be free. How? By working along the same general lines that a runner does. He has limitations in the line of form, speed, endurance. How does he crowd these limitations back? By taking advantage of the knowledge and experience of others and by the strictest self-discipline. Every year the fruits of experience and strict discipline enable a boy here and there to push back the limitations a little and he makes a new record of the extent to which man is physically free in a certain field. So with you and me in the less strenuous endeavor to push back the barriers of our physical limitations in general. It calls for careful study of the science of physical efficiency that we may know what to do and what not to do and even more for the self-discipline which will enable us to act upon the things we learn. The fundamental truths of physical fitness are seemingly well established. They are not many in number nor difficult of comprehension. The fruits of these truths are every year being displayed in many an athletic contest. But why should these splendid results be confined to a few individuals as apart from the majority? Will not the things which make an athlete more fit make you and me more fit? Is it more important that a certain few specially endowed young men should train faithfully for an occasional contest than that you and I should faithfully train for the contest that will last until the end of our days? Nevertheless most of us fail to act in accordance with the truths of bodily fitness, for it means thought, study, self-control, discipline. The prize is not so tangible or appealing. It is not a letter to blaze on the expansive chest nor a medal to bedeck a watch-fob. It is however a prize indeed, freedom, freedom from petty ills and weaknesses that encroach upon our powers and limit our activities. The normal, intelligent person in these days of enlightment has no excuse for headaches, bilousness, colds, nerves, and the whole train of minor ills and weaknesses which hamper so much and are generally due to ignorance or willfulness or lack of will. All of us ought to be ashamed, to be incapaciated by preventable illness or harmful habits. It is an indictment of our intelligence or of self control. We have not learned the lesson of physical freedom. We are still the willing, sometimes even the eager subjects of pills, tablets, drugs, and prescriptions. We have not learned that regular exercise is the natural tonic; that care and reason in matters of clothing and personal habits will prevent more illness than all the antiseptics or antitoxines which medical science has developed; that an intelligently regulated diet is the nearest thing to a panacea known, besides being one of the most potent factors in developing physical fitness, in forcing back physical limitations to a point where they do not hamper unduly.

"Let us turn now to consider mental freedom. Here again it seems to me that the true freedom is freedom from our own limitations, a freedom obtained by years of study, effort, discipline. Is a mind fettered by ignorance free? Is the mind free which trails behind a capricious fancy, which, when it should be endeavoring to extend its horizon in some field of human activity or achievement, is gayly jumping from the athletic field to some house beyond the hills, thence to the auto ride of last night, and on to the strawberries and cream that are in store for supper? Such freedom we all know too well. It is common and cheap. To be mentally free means to be free in things mental, to have access to the world of mental achievement. And what a world to be free in—the sum total of science, history, art, literature of the world, the accumulation of thousands of years! Hebrew, Greek, Roman, Russian, Italian, Spanish, French, German, English, American, in one and all, mines of untold riches, where those who have access may delve and find the rarest treasure. How obtain access? There is but one way. By the discipline of study, thought, untiring personal effort to fit onesself for the companionship of the greatest minds of all time. He who can in some small measure walk with Plato, Demosthenes, Cicero, Virgil, Angelo, Raphael, Hugo, Descartes, Chopin, Keppler, Beethoven, Goethe, Rembrant, Shakespeare, Darwin, Aggasiz, one or all of these, or countless others,—he is entering the land where the mind is free.

"As with the physical and mental, so with the spiritual. Spiritual freedom, freedom of the spirit from its limitations, is gained by a slow, hard process, and, if anything, its winning is attended by greater anguish than is the case with others. Like the moth, it must free itself by its own struggles, ere it can fly. Surely to be free from meanness, bitterness, envy, spite, jealousy, malice, hatred, fear, and all the attendant animal traits which have ruled the animal kingdom since life began, and still exercises its tyranny over the lives of humans as a part of their heritage,—to supplant these ingrained instincts and impulses by the higher and nobler spiritual qualities, such as chivalry, generosity, charity, love,—which, in comparison with the ages and ages of life upon the planet, have only recently begun to come to the fore,—this is the supreme challenge to the energy, the grit, the idealism of youth, and is the supreme triumph of the human spirit.

"Let me again say that I glory in the intense desire for freedom which is common to the heart of youth. I believe it is one of its most precious possessions. Its irresistible urgings preclude stagnation, and almost anything is better than that. But these same urgings may bring activity along two altogether different lines, and bring to pass diametrically opposite results. One individual may interpret them as demanding freedom from restraints throughout the whole range of his nature. Such an one, if he logically adheres to his interpretation, will eventually become the bond slave of his body, ostracised from the fellowship of great minds, ever more and more akin spiritually to the lower animals. Another individual may interpret these same urgings to demand the liberation of his powers by painstaking thought and study and strict self-discipline. Such an one will make his body a free and efficient servant of his mind and spirit; will fit his mind for the highest intellectual fellowship, and chasten his spirit to the gentler, nobler, more divine virtues. I believe that the American youth and the American nation at large needs sorely to distinguish between false and true freedom, between the freedom which calls for the loosing of restraints and the freedom which calls for discipline. True freedom is not the freedom of wilfullness, but of will; is not bestowed, but achieved. With what rare charm has Oliver Wendell Holmes in his immortal stanza from the Chambered Nautilus combined this idea of true freedom with beautiful conception of the meaning of death:

"Build me more stately mansions, O my soul!
(The poet did not seek some beneficent power to give more stately mansions, but invoked his own soul to build them).
Leave thy low vaulted past.
(Again the action is to be self-initiated).
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven, with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea."

"And to the spirit which has wrought out its freedom within the body, why may not death be its releasing to an unhampered freedom?"

REVIEW OF THE TRACK SEASON.

Middlebury was represented this year by the best track team in the history of the college. Dual meets were held with Vermont, St. Lawrence, and R. P. I., and in no case was the winner in doubt. Our old rival from the north was defeated by 18 points while in the R. P. I. meet, the margin was 44 points.

Then Middlebury placed a man in the New England Intercollegiates for the first time, when Jones finished a close second in the two mile run. Lee and Hollister also gave good accounts of themselves in this meet, but they were up against some pretty stiff competition.

Coach Holmes has developed a mighty well balanced team, although he has lacked men to pick up second and third places in many events. He has given the men the right amount of training to keep them in the pink of condition throughout the season and he also used good judgment in placing the men in the events they were best fitted for. Much of the success of the team is due to him.

The season has been featured by the number of records that have been smashed. Lee, '17, broke the pole vault and high hurdle records; Hollister, '17, the half-mile and broad jump; Jones, '19, the mile and two mile; Brewster, '18, the discus; and Condit, '16, the hammer throw.

Some of the new men have done especially well all the season, bringing a large number of points. Darby in the sprints and quarters has shown that he is a comer and should easily develop into one of the best men Middlebury has had in these events. Tatro has also come up to expectations in the high jump and has done well in the shot put. Cullen teamed well with Jones in the distance runs, as did Peabody in the quarter.

The team has been handicapped throughout the season by the absence of Capt. Lamere, who has been laid up with a bad ankle. But he has been a valuable aid to Coach Holmes in coaching and picking the men.

When the scores of the various college teams in New England are compared with those of the Middlebury team, it is seen that, with the exception of Harvard, Yale, and Dartmouth, we could hold our own with any of them. It is hoped meets with some of the larger colleges may be held next year, as the record of this year's team warrants such a move. We lose by graduation only Capt. Lamere, Condit and Paulsen and so a very strong neucleus is left for next year The student body needs to back track more than has been the case in the past. The team deserves their support as much as the baseball and football teams, and must have it if track is to keep its proper place as one of our major sports.

COACH E. N. HOLMES' SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Brings Track Team Through With Three Successive Victories.

E. N. HOLMES.

The track season, just closed, must go down in Middlebury's history as the most successful ever accomplished, and a large measure of credit is due Coach E. N. Holmes for the able manner in which he has handled the men. As a result of Coach Holmes' careful oversight of his charges, the men went into every meet in the pink of condition, and emerged superior physically to their opponents. The record of three successive track victories, over University of Vermont, St. Lawrence University, and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, respectively; of eight college records broken, and of the capturing of seventh place at the New England Intercollegiates, marks the brightest page of Middlebury's athletic achievements during the past year. The college has never even approached this record in the past.

Coach Holmes loses but one point winner this year by graduation, and with a veteran team for next year, can be depended upon to keep Middlebury in the front ranks among the minor colleges, in so far as track is concerned.

MIDDLEBURY MEETS DEFEAT.

Crack Tufts' Team Takes Opening Game of Trip by 4-0 Score. Midd. Plays Good Ball.

In the first contest of a three game series, Middlebury met defeat at the hands of the Tufts' nine by a score of 4 to 0, at Medford, June 1. It was a good close game all the way, and when it is considered that Tufts has without doubt, one of the very best college clubs in the East, there is no cause for downheartedness on the part of the Middlebury supporters.

Krepps, the home team's pitcher was in fine form and held Middlebury to four scattered hits. Crippen, for Middlebury, also pitched excellent ball, but Tufts was fortunate in being able to bunch their hits at opportune times. Mott put up a star game behind the bat, allowing but one stolen base and handling Crippen's shoots in good shape.

Both sides went scoreless until the fourth, when Tufts put a tally across in their half. Ford went out on a fast grounder to Bresnahan. Whittaker received a base on balls and scored on a two-bagger to left which "Robby" let get away from him.

Two scores were chalked up by Tufts in the sixth. Krepps started things by singling past third and was sacrificed to second by Ford. He came home on a three base drive to right by Whittaker and the latter scored when Bresnahan played Volk's hard smash to first.

The final score was made in the eighth after two were out. Whittaker, the third man up, was safe on an error by Bower. Volk sent him to second with a single and he scored when Saunders lined one through short.

Just for good measure in the seventh they batted Lamere all over the lot and a succession of hits by Robinson, Dewhirst and Bartlett coupled with a pass and three errors netted four runs. Moulton, who succeeded him held Middlebury scoreless in the eighth.

Book Published by Dr. Cunningham.

A new book by a member of our faculty made its appearance on our library shelves last week. It is a work on the "Philosophy of Bergson," by Dr. Cunningham. It is primarily a critical work, rather than a summary, in which an apparently successful attempt has been made to point out certain inconsistencies in the "New Philosophy." The work is exceptionally fine in its literary style as well as in its philosophical contents, and will certainly add to the reputation which the author now enjoys as a student and critic of Hegel.

There is nothing which can do more to bring a college before the eyes of the public and add to its reputation than the publishing of authoritative books or articles by members of its faculty, and in this respect Middlebury has had no cause for complaint in the last few years.

1917 Kaleidoscopes Ready.

Announcement is made that the 1917 edition of the Kaleidoscope is ready for distribution and that just as soon as the delinquents pay up their taxes, the books will be given out.

The Campus has been requested by the Kaleidoscope management to make it clear that the delay in its appearance is in no way chargable to the publishers —The Tuttle Co.

The tardy appearance of the 1917 volume is due directly to delay on the part of the engravers in supplying the half tones for the book. The Tuttle Co. has worked day and night to overcome this handicap, and, but for this fact, a longer delay would have resulted.
